

THE WEEKLY INDIAN

Volume 8

October 9, 2017

One of the seniors being interviewed this week is Maci Tate. Her advice for the underclassmen is that "All you need in high school are good grades and great friends, and don't let people tell you your worth." Her hobbies include Hanging out with friends, drawing, volunteering at animal shelters, scrolling through twitter, and listening to Lana Del Rey with Austin. Her future plans are to attend SWOSU for 2 years and then transfer to OSU to get a degree in veterinary medicine.

One of the seniors being interviewed this week is Cody Schenewolf. He states "As a senior at Arapaho-Butler who has been here all the way from Pre-K, I've experienced all this school has to offer. All the teachers, the good or the bad ones, just want to see you succeed. Yes they can be irritating but they are just trying to help you, so help them out and give them respect they deserve. A great way to help these teachers would be to try your hardest to succeed in life. Now i know this sounds dumb but think about it. If a teacher watches a bright young mind grow and develop, then that mind gets out of high school and gets strung out on drugs then what was the purpose? Personally I'm furthering my career through the vo-tech and plan to attend college to become a Robotics engineering. Seeing a student do this shows the teachers that what they do everyday is for purpose and it gives them hope. Having a hobby in high school can relive some of the stress that comes with it. Having something to escape to is great, whether its yo-yoing, rubix cubing, rc cars, or even just video games, it makes it helps to make school a bit more bearable. So respect your teacher, get some hobbies, and don't stress out over petty high school drama."

Last weekend, our FCA went to the OU FCA Game Day. The students who went received a t-shirt and food, then traveled to the OU Football Stadium. After a 15 minute walk, and climbing 25 ramps they made it to their seats and enjoyed the game. Even though OU lost, the game was lots of fun! After, the game they went to the Loyd Noble Center for an FCA Rally. Softball player Nicole Mendes, basketball player Trae Young, baseball player Steele Walker, and gymnast Maggie Nicols spoke and answered questions. Then a previous OSU football player, but now a preacher presented the Word. It was an awesome experience, and many are already excited for next year's OU FCA Game Day.

Music Department Plans Trip to Boston

The Arapaho-Butler Music Program is going to Boston. The Boston trip will be in June of 2018. Each individual student going on the Boston trip had to sell flower bulbs. This was to help fundraise the cost of their trip to Boston. The money that each individual made by selling these flower bulbs went into their own personal account to be applied toward the expense of their trip.

WOCDA Performance

Students who recently tried out and made the WOCDA All Region Choir will perform at Elk City on October 23rd, at 7 PM.
